HONGKONG, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1895.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The gist of Lord Salisbury's speech at the Lord Mayor's Banquet in the Guildhall, as wired out by Reuter and published in another column, disposes of the milk-and-water arguments of those optimists who, ever since we published an extract of the Russian epoch on the 25th ultimo, have been busy trying to make themselves, and all with whom they are acquainted, believe that Russia could not possibly have accomplished the remarkable feat in diplomatic gymnastics with which we confidently credited her able and indefatigable representative in Peking. It has been asserted during the past two weeks times out of number that the advance of Russia to Port Arthur and the acquisition by her of special rights and privileges in respect of Manchuria would never have been obtained but for the co-operation of Great Britain, either expressed or implied by her alliance, and that we are bound to pull as many, if not more, chestnuts out of the fire as our Russian friends, no matter what moves may have been made on the political chess-board—that England and Russia are, de facto, partners in the game of grab in the Orient. If this were so would Lord Salisbury have stated, in reference to "reports of Russian designs on Port Arthur," that "England is equal to any combination in regard to war or commerce in that direction, and may look with equanimity on any Power which thinks it can exclude her from that region?"

Certainly not. Lord Salisbury's utterance is little else than a threat, or warning, to Russia that as far as the conversion by her of Port Arthur into an impregnable

Russian fortress is concerned England has come to no understanding with the Czar's Ministers about such an important move and is not prepared to tolerate anything of the kind. His lordship's remarks also convey a covert threat to those Powers, obviously to France chiefly, who have aided and abetted Russia's aggressive action and China's exasperating folly and offensive diplomacy.

It would be more satisfactory, we think, if Reuter would confine himself to facts
